

Bianca Hanewinkel
Curriculum Developer I

Bianca Hanewinkel is a Curriculum Developer I at the National White Collar Crime Center (NW3C) where she specializes in designing and implementing self-paced and instructor-led training programs for law enforcement professionals. Combining her experience as an instructional designer and previous law enforcement officer, Bianca collaborates with subject matter experts (SMEs) and incorporates a constructivist approach to education based upon her own training and experience.

Prior to her career at NW3C, Bianca was a curriculum developer on numerous government contracts working with the United States Navy, developing self-paced and instructor-led curriculum. She was a Deputy with the Pinellas County Sheriff's Office for nine years where she worked as a detective and a field training officer.

Bianca maintains her status as a certified instructor through the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) as an adjunct professor at St. Petersburg College where she instructs within the law enforcement basic recruit academies.

Bianca earned a Master of Science in Instructional Technology from the New York Institute of Technology (NYIT) and a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology from Rollins College. While at NYIT, Bianca earned the Dean's Award for Excellence in Instructional Technology.
