Kristin Pickett
Curriculum Developer I

Kristin Pickett is a Curriculum Developer I at the National White Collar Crime Center (NW3C). She assists in creating multimedia courses, presentations and materials used for web and classroom-based trainings for law enforcement professionals.

Prior to joining NW3C, Kristin was a tenured criminal justice professor, as well as department chair, for a university criminal justice program. With 20 years of higher education experience, her work centered on criminology, victimology, and the intersection of mental health and crime. She spent 10 years developing online education for criminal justice professionals, including overhauling curriculum and creating courses that are focused on important, relevant, and current areas of the field. Her passion has been creating education that enables criminal justice professionals to better themselves, as well as the communities that they will serve.

Kristin's formal education includes criminal justice, criminology, psychology, political science, and instructional design. After earning a Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice, she went on to receive a joint master's degree in political science and criminal justice, focusing on non-profit services, specifically in juvenile corrections and mental health. In 2023, she completed her graduate certificate in Instructional Design and Performance Technology at Arizona State University.
